"Two Legged Welves."

" In respect to betting, we might men-tion the names of several men of fair standing and considerable means, who staked up on the result everything they had in the world. After putting up their ready cash, they mortgaged their houser and other read estate in order to increase their risks. Bets of $100, $50 and down to $10 and $5, were innumerable and heavy in the aggregate amount."

13 That is what the Troy Hadget says, in the course of some remarks which it makes upon the late brutal and disgusting prize-fight between Heenan and Morissey --the "two-legged welves" to sewere persnaded to "worry and devour cuch other," n few days since, for the amesement of a parcel of creatures not much if any higher in the scale of being than themselves,

It seems that Morrissey is a resident of Troy, and coming off conqueror in the fray, there was some talk of getting up a celebration, or at least a glorification reception, in honor of the great brute, on his return to the city. But the Budget rather discountenances such a proceeding, though it puts in a sort of semi-justification of the great interest taken by the public in the result, for the reason assigned in the above extract, viz. that betting on the subject had been so extensively practised.

We do not know how much or how in the credit is due to the statements of the Budget relative to the " men of fair stund ing and considerable means, who, (as it says,) had staked upon the result every thing they had in the world?" The allegagation is welt-nigh incredible. One can scarcely believe that any men of that sort would deliberately make such asses of themselves. It is more likely, by for, that the Budget man is remancing.

But, at all events, whether the Troy Budget is true or false in its averments,nue thing is certain : and that is, that the fight between Heenan and Morrissey, like every other brutality of that sort, was eminently disgraceful and abominable, a flagrant scandal to our American civilization and of a most permicious and degrading Willessed by rion will that the fight that thousand individuals, most of whom had been specially conveyed to the ground by steamboats from Buffalo. And, certainly, if the published details of the conflict are to be relied on, there could scarcely be imagined anything more essentially brutal, nay fiendish and infernal,

These shocking scenes, however, are go wing fearfully frequent in this country-It is not very long since the sril of Rhode Island was disgraced by one of them, and here, as elsewhere, not a little money was staked on the result. If there are any laws ilesigned to punish and prevent such exhibitions, they ought to be streamously and theroughly enforced. If there are none in existence, surely some efficient ones ought to be promptly enacted, so that ad the alders und abettors, as well as central operators in these disgusting brutalines, might be brought to speedy and condign punish-

LOCAL NEWS.

THE LONG WHARF IMPROVEMENT .-- Captain Mahoney is progressing finely with his job of filling in on the south side of Long Wharf, and has already brought the outer wall in sight at low water. The gravel for filling in is brought, we believe, from some point up the river. We have heard it suggested that the trustees of the property would have been "killing two birds with one stone," had they employed a mud-digger and procured the material for filling in from the bottem routh of the wharf, thus deepening the water of the barbor where it is very much could. This portion of with the debais washed down through the seners from the streets, and will sooner or later have to be cleared out .

to It is somewhat singular that the dial plates on the only two churches in ! Newport displaying such, represent damb clocks. These are on the Trinity church and Marlborough Street Methodist, That on the Trinity would be quite useful were it set in motion, as it can be seen from almost any position in the harbor, and hesides would be a convenience to our citizens. The single dial plate on the Methodist, we believe, is merely worn as the belles wear their jewelry and bonnets-for an out side show. Both these "clocks" have themerit of telling the truth just twice each twenty-four hours, and that for less than one minute. The linlance of the twentyfour hours is given to "fibbing," for which however they are not responsible.

POLITICAL EXCITEMNET. - Our exchanges from New York and the border State of Massachusetts, are teeming with political articles, reports of political demonstrations, speeches, &c., all having reference to the election which takes place in both States next week. Something of the sort here would be a windfall about now; but most unfortunately our State and Municipal elections both occur in the Spring, so that it is only once in four years that our people can participate in the excitement of a STRAWBEREIES IN OCTOBER.- We were presented, Tuesday, by Dr. Richard H. Rice, with a box of fresh strawberries groun in his garden in the open nir, and picked from the vines that morning. He informs us that his family have gathered fresh strawberries from these vines every day since last April. The vines are from one transplanted from Sierra Nevada, California, bearing a white berry.

The barque Murtha Anna, after a de. arrival of a portion of her cargo from Albany, completed her lading yesterday, anchored at the Point, and will sail for Cuba the first wind. The brig John Pierce and schooner N. Hazzard, are the only remaining vessels of the Cuban fleet now in port.

The northerly and easterly winds of the past lew days exhausted their breath yesterday at noon and died out, giving place to a light breeze from the south. This will be regarded us a godsend by the expretant merchants here and in ports up the river, whose enrgoes have been detained by contrary winds.

EF The schooner Pearl, mentioned in our paper of Tuesday last as having sunk between Beaver Tail and Point Judith, had a cargo of moulding sand, lumber, 30 bbls of ale, and about 400 bbls of oil casks. The New Bedfurd Mercury, from which paper we glean the above, understands there is no insurance on vestel or cargo.

Our Western Correspondence.

Bl. Paul, Minnerola, Oct, 24, 1858. MR. Borron :-- After a delightlut sail of acorly four hundred miles on the waters of the most picturesque mature, aimost eclipsing even that of our own majertic Hudson I find myself treading the soil of this new, vast, and growing territory. Minnesota occupies the most elevated surface between the Gulf of Mexico and the Arctic Sea, and is characterized by the great number and size of the Lakes which it contains. Between the St. Croix and the Mississippie they are innumerable. Many are covered with wild rice, and alive with sea foul. the bather appears to be slowly filling up They are fringed with timber, and the shores me of gravel or publies. Iron, roal, copper and lead are all found here, also the red clay, from which the Indians manufacture their pipes. The buffalo, elk and decrioam over these Western plains, and the nators contain many varieties of fish. St. Paul, the Capital of Minnesota, is on the left hank of the Mississippi, fifteen miles below the Falls of St. Anthony. In 1812, this place consisted of but a single Trading House; now it has a population of 16,000. A few miles below this city are the celebrated Falls of St. Anthony. The river here is divided by Cataract Island, a rocky island, covered with trees and shrubbery. A dam is thrown neross the eastern channel, and a large portion of the river flows through the western channel, which is three hundred and ten yards wide. The height of the Falls is 16 1-2 feet. The entire scenery present an air of desolation These falls were named by a Catholic Priest, after his Patron Saint, and have become a fashlonable resort. A few miles below are the more beautiful Falls of "Laughing Water," which are even more picture que than the famed Palls of Trenton. St. Paul is built upon terraced banks, and steep streets lead from the landing to the first level, upon which are built the stores, churches and hotels. We had but a few hours to devote to St. Paul, but we saw enough to satisfy ourselves that it was justly the pride and honor of the North West. Nothing can be more delightful than a sail up the Mississippi at the present season. At times, our bonny boat was gliding between two green Isles, whose overhanging bunglis brushed against her projecting guards, and again we moved pleasantly out upon the broad bosom of Lake Pepino, while all around the lofty bluffs were clothed in nature's brightest livery. In fine, we find conselves growing enthusiastic over the beauty of this country and its brilliant prospects.

AN INTERESTING REMINISCENCE. The doings of an insane man, named Winant Streng, who fired into a procession of Odd Fellows, at Washington, recently, and remarks:

The above calls to our mind a thrilling scene which we witnessed on the east-ern portico of the Capital, in the winter of 1834, when an attempt was made by an instite man by the name of Lawrence, to assasinate General Jackson. It was un the occasion of the fineral of Hon. War-ren R. Davis, of South Carolina. The fu-neral procession, in which were the President and heads of departments, foreign ministers, senators and representatives, was passing from the Hall of Representatives to the eastern portico.

Gen. Jackson, leaning on the arm of Hon. Levi Woodhury, then Secretary of State, was near the head of the procession, immediately in the rear of the mourners, among whom were several ladies of Mr. Davis's family. When the mourners had reacted the portico, and just as the President had passed out of the green door leading to it, Lawrence step of from behind one of the columns of the partico, where he had conealer himself, and instantly with cone and contains the cone of the contains the cone of the contains atantly, without a word, presented a large horse-pistol within three feet of the Presi-dent's breast, and exploded the cap. NOTHING IS LOST.

Nothing is lost; the drop of dew,
That trendles on the leaf or flower,
Is but exhaled, to fall anew
In summer's thunder shower;
Perchance to shine within the bow
That fronts the sun at fall of day;
Perchance to apartle in the flow
Of fountains far away.

Nothing it lost; the finiest seed,
By wild birds borne or breezes blown,
Finds something suited to its need,
Wherein 'dis sown and grown,
Perchance finds sustemane and soil,
In some remote and distant place,
Or 'mid the crowded homes of toil
Shada and homes of toil Sheds usefulness and gra

The little drift of e su non dust.

By the March winds disturbed and tossed,
Though settree'd by the fitfol gust.
Is exanged, but never lost;
It yet may bear some sturdy sten.—
Some ground oak battling with the blast;
Or crown with verdurous diadem
Some ruin of the past.

The formace quenched, the flame put out, Still clings on earth or soars in air, Transformed, diffused, or blown about To hurn again elsewhere; liavig to make the beacon blaze. That gleams athwart the bring waste— Or light the ancial lamp, whose rays Illiume the home of taste.

The touching tones of ministrel art.
The breathing of some mournful lute.
Which we have heard with listening heart,
Are able white when unite;
The language of some household song.
The perfume of some cherished flower,
Though gone from outward seese, belong
To memory's after hour.

So with our words, or harsh or kind, Uttered, they are not all forgot, But leave some trace upon the mind, Pass on, yet perish not; As they are spoken, so the fall Upon these rit spoken to, Scoren it like dreps of burning gall, Or soothe like honey dew.

So with our deeds, for good or ill,
They have their power, scarce understood;
Then let us use our better will
To make them rife with good;
Like circles on a lake they go,
Ilising within, and never stay,
Oh! that our deeds were fashioned so
That they might bless alway.

Then, since these lesser things ne'er die, But work beyond our poor control, Say shall the auppliant for the sky? The greater bunnar soul!
Alt, no! it still will sparn the past Ouey its Maker's high behest, Josful if it be found at last.

LUDICROUS INCIDENT .-- An Irish paper says, that at the dinner lately given to Cardinal Wiseman by the Catholics of Waterlord, the German band, whose ser vices were engaged on the occasion, not knowing that the health of the Pope was to precede that of her Majesty, and not understanding what the Chairman said in proposing the toast, as soon as the Pope's health was proposed, struck up "God save the Queen;" whereupon there arose a scene of great confusion. The knives had not demonstrative of the feeders or toasters grasped them in their hands, and standing on their scats, brandished them at the playera, who were aloft in the gallery, who, mis taking these signs for applause, played with increased vigor. The confusion increased; and as the storm of sound continued, the poor players, still misunderstandued, the poor prayers, sain misunuers anding this confusion, and supposing it was applaase, played on. At length, some of the commany rushed furiously up the stairs to the galtery, and attacked the musicians, who were glad to escape without have ing their instruments broken.

When Gerrit Smith was at Albany some interested individual, near the close of the meeting, desired to know Mr. Smith's views on amalgamation ? Mr. Smith said that he had exhibited his own preference by marrying a white wife, but if the taste of his questioner lead him among the negroes for a wife, he would not object. "The thouse of derive hundrer" shouts of decisive laughter," says a reporter, " that greeted the discomfited question er can be better imagined than described. I. restoring hair perfectly and permanently has never yet had a rival volume after rolane might be given from all parts of the world and from the most intelligent to prove that "it is a perfect Restorative;" but read the circular and you cannot doubt read also the following:—

following:-ID THE HAIR.--People have for centuries been afficied with hald heads, and the only ID THE HAIR.—People have for continies been afflicted with hald heads, and the only readely, heretofore known, has been those abominable wigs. By a recent discovery of Professor Wood these articles are heing fast dispensed with, but a great mean persons still patronize them, because they have been as often imposed upon by Hair Tonies of elf-ferent! it is. To all such persons we established to request, that they will try once again, for in Wood's Rustorative there is no such thing as fell. We know of a lady wind was bald, who used the article a short time, and her head is now covered completely with the timest and most beautiful curls imaginable. We know of numerous cases where hair was rapidly falling out, which it restored in greater year fection than it ever had been before. It is also without doubt one of the best includes for keeping the hair in good conditional has proved itselfty greaterny to the sills that hair is heir to.

It is the duty of every one to improve their personal appearance, though some may differ in regard to the ways of doing it; but every one will admit that a beautiful head of hair, either In man or woman, is an object much to should be left antried to obtain such a cavidal exation.—[Woman's Advocate, Philadel; his.
